

Course Schedule

FALL COURSE SCHEDULE

The Fall semester start date has been pushed back to August 24 with expanded options. Traditional brick and mortar, in-person courses remain on the schedule. Classes and labs will be positioned in an attempt to adhere to social distancing guidelines. Many in-person classes will also be provided synchronously using Blackboard Collaborate. Explore the different Online learning introduction options UACCM provides and check the Student Technology Requirements pages to determine eligibility for these options.

This is a hybrid class. Instruction and content are delivered utilizing both face-to-face instruction and some form of technology where student and faculty member are separated by time, space, or both. The hybrid course reduces the amount of face-to-face seat time for the student on campus. The UACCM instructor is required to administer a proctored comprehensive final exam that counts for a significant percent of the semester grade.

This is a hybrid class. Instruction and content are delivered utilizing both face-to-face instruction and some form of technology where student and faculty member are separated by time, space, or both. The hybrid course reduces the amount of face-to-face seat time for the student on campus. The UACCM instructor is required to administer a proctored comprehensive final exam that counts for a significant percent of the semester grade.

This is a hybrid class. Instruction and content are delivered utilizing both face-to-face instruction and some form of technology where student and faculty member are separated by time, space, or both. The hybrid course reduces the amount of face-to-face seat time for the student on campus. The UACCM instructor is required to administer a proctored comprehensive final exam that counts for a significant percent of the semester grade.

This is a hybrid class. Instruction and content are delivered utilizing both face-to-face instruction and some form of technology where student and faculty member are separated by time, space, or both. The hybrid course reduces the amount of face-to-face seat time for the student on campus. The UACCM instructor is required to administer a proctored comprehensive final exam that counts for a significant percent of the semester grade.
