

Shadow of the Sky

I have a dream that is dark and drear
It involves a tree house full of fear
I know not the day, nor the time
Only the thoughts that cross my mind
I start on the ground, feeling fine
That only lasts one past the chime
Then a shadow starts to run
Beats on the ground like a drum
I turn to dart, and then I find
A ladder leaning at angle seventy-five
I climb and climb, adrenaline rushing
Through the limbs and past the knotting
I get to the top, and find the door
Into my safe haven, can I ask for more?
I walk into this home of the sky
Then I turn to my surprise
The figure is crawling, faster than me!
I turn to run and what do I see?
Many hallways, like the catacombs
Any of these he could roam...
Questions race through my mind
It scares me what I might find
Which do I go down?
I looked around with a frown
Then I came back to earth,
And started to run like a horse with tight girth
I went right then left
My heart was pounding in my chest
I heard the monster coming near
I truly hoped he would disappear
Then I felt his breath on my heels
I wondered if I would be one of his meals
As I passed a doorway, I was jerked
I thought it might be he who lurked
As soon as I thought my heart might explode,
I saw a white light that firmly glowed
I was brought back to reality, and there I lied
My breath was hard, I nearly died
As I laid there in the dark of my room
I realized it was just a dream of gloom
I had a dream of dark and drear
It involved a treehouse, full of fear.
