

Words That Always Haunt me

Sticks and stones may break my bones but words will always haunt me

I lie silent in bed, with your words in my head

But i will always suffer quietly

My thoughts run wild like a young small child

You're just to ugly for society

I hate myself! I hate myself!

Like everyone else around me

I try to push them away but they seem to always stay

And sometimes I hear a fake apology

The words started when i was only young

And yet somehow they still linger on my tongue

No one hears me when i cry,

But I'm too scared to ask for help so i start to lie

Their words left permanent scars

But someday they'll all turn to stars